

Well Child Visits

Annual check-ups, or well child visits, are important to your child's health. They give you and your child the chance to speak with a medical and developmental expert to discuss your child's health and development and ask questions. During these visits, primary care providers examine your child for early signs of diseases, as well as hearing, vision, sleep, or speech problems.

Make sure your child has a complete physical examination at the ages below.
